Well, you wanted Equality

The news that police officers from Special Branch spied on the Lawrence family made headline news. The Police were of course doing what they are paid for. At the time the Lawrence family campaign for justice was developing into a political campaign with the usual suspects from the extreme-left jumping on to the Lawrence bandwagon. Hence the police interest. I wonder if the promised enquiry will reveal that Special Branch also spied on Mosley, Union Movement, Martin Webster, John Tyndall and dozens of other members and officials of patriotic parties.

Now the left have been getting an equal amount of interest from the secret police they are moaning, and I thought they wanted "equality"!

What Goes Round Comes Round!

Understandably, the murderous bomb attacks on the Boston marathon attracted much sympathy in Britain. But how many Britons remember that Boston was the centre of fundraising for the IRA, providing funds to buy guns and explosives to be used to murder British citizens in London, Warrington, Manchester, Birmingham and Belfast. Now Bostonians have experienced terrorist attacks, I wonder if they reflect on their past support for terrorists.

As my old Gran used to say ... "What goes round comes round".

Let them hate, as long as they fear

Two gangs of Muslim terrorists, one from Birmingham and one from Luton have been jailed for terrorist offences recently. In both cases, the English Defence League were planned targets for the terrorists. Although not overtly political, the EDL have been to the forefront of opposing the Islamisation of Britain, and have led many protests against Asian grooming gangs, at a time when local politicians were ignoring the problem. These activities have not made the EDL popular in many Muslim communities, and it is a mark of distinction that some criminal members of these communities want them dead!

Keep up the good work lads and lassies, let them hate, as long as they fear!

Should British Jihadists Face the Noose?

All British citizens, whether they be born here or naturalised, are duty bound by law, to preserve the state that confers citizenship on them, in return for the protection and support of the state. The state, in law, is represented by the Sovereign, and for a British citizen to commit an act of war against the state, means by definition, he or she commits an act of war against the Sovereign. And that is called TREASON!

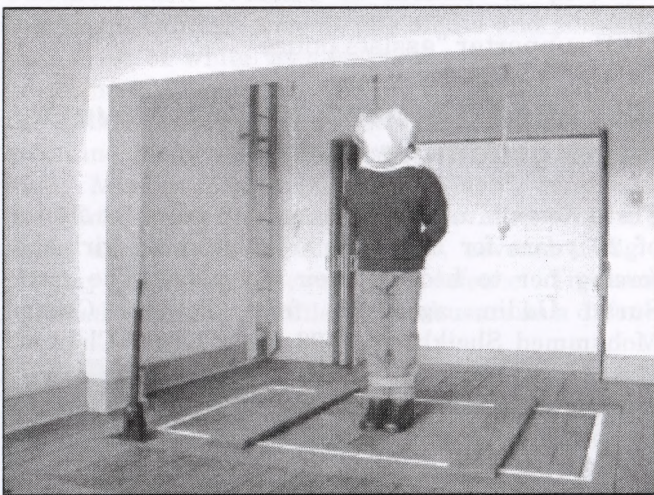

By applying these legal criteria, the attack and murder of Drummer Lee Rigby, a serving member of her Majesty's Armed Forces, by two British citizens screaming during the attack, "We swear by Almighty Allah we will never stop fighting you" is a prime-facie case of treason. And that is what they should be charged with!

The law of treason was first put on to the statute book in the 14th century. Although amended in the 1800s, it still remains on the statute book, and the penalty for treason in a time of war is, death by hanging!

war existed between the two countries. Unlike the Woolwich murderers, Joyce was not British, and did not kill any British citizens. But still he was found guilty of treason and hanged in London's Wandsworth prison!

At the time of writing this article London's Met Police have arrested several people as potential accomplices, although none have as yet been charged. If any of these are ultimately charged as accomplices to the murder of Lee Rigby, those that are British citizens should also face charges of treason!

This action would send a very clear message to the British Muslim community. British Muslims in your community, who have become Islamic extremists and are advocating or supporting Jihad (Holy war), are traitors and will be treated as such. Therefore it is the DUTY of all British Muslims to clearly demonstrate their loyalty to the Crown by helping the authorities to identify and punish the traitors in their midst. Failure to do so, will lead to deeper suspicion that many are sympathetic to their aims!

The Scaffold still exists at Wandsworth Prison

Probably, the last person hanged in Britain for treason was William Joyce in 1946. In Joyce's case, he should, as a citizen of the Irish Republic, never have been charged, but the Crown's case was that for a short time he had "availed himself of the support and protection of Britain, and as such had a legal duty and loyalty to the state". Joyce had simply gone to Germany to help the German propaganda effort at a time when a state of

Are British Jihadists TRAITORS?

It will be argued that the execution of British Muslim traitors will be viewed as martyrdom, and may radicalise even more to join the Jihad. But with the Sharia law advocating "an eye for an eye", they should welcome this proposal.

Violence in Whitehall as BNP Demand Deportation of Hate Preachers

A demonstration in Whitehall, Central London, organised by the BNP to urge the government to deport Islamic "Preachers of Hate", was attacked by members of the Unite Against Fascist group.

The original demonstration was to be held in Woolwich, South London, close to the site of the murder of Lee Rigby by Islamic extremists, but was moved by BNP leader Nick Griffin following police concerns that local tensions could turn into violence. The new location was in Whitehall gardens, with a march to Downing Street, followed by a memorial service at the Cenotaph. In addition to BNP supporters, an estimated 500 activists from the English Defence League attended.

moved in and arrested 58 UAF supporters for a variety of public order offences.

Girl aged 13 used as sex slave by Asian grooming gang

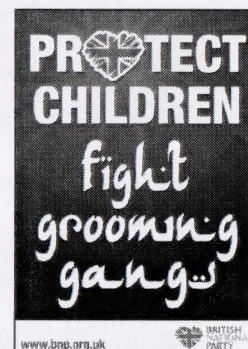

Three Asian Muslim men have been jailed for a total of 28 years for abducting a 13 year-old girl and forcing her to become their sex slave. The men, Suran Uddin, aged 26, from Bethnal Green, Mohammed Sheikh, aged 32, from Lower Clapton, and Hamza Ali, aged 39, from Chingford, groomed the girl and enticed her to "come for a drive with them". She was then taken from London to a house in Ipswich, where she was raped and sexually abused by the men over a period of four days.

The girl, described as "vulnerable, was given class B drugs and alcohol, before "being passed about like a piece of meat" the court was told. "She has been left extremely traumatised". Uddin was jailed for 15 years, Sheikh was jailed for 8 years and Ali was jailed for 5 years.

Nick Griffin leads the call for the deportation of "Hate Preachers"

Despite the solemn occasion, with the recent death of Drummer Lee Rigby fresh in people's minds, political opponents from the extreme-left, Unite Against Fascism group held their own counter-demonstration. Their presence suggested they opposed the deportation of "Hate Preachers". Following this, UAF activists tried to physically disrupt the BNP gathering. Several scuffles broke out on the fringes between UAF and EDL supporters. A few bottles were thrown before police

Uproar as Morrisons Supermarket Suspends Employee Over Poppy Badge

A branch of Morrisons supermarket chain caused uproar when management ordered a checkout employee to remove a poppy badge and a small wristband being worn in tribute to murdered soldier Drummer Lee Rigby. Father of two, Adam Austin, was working on the checkout at Morrisons branch in Portsmouth, when the branch manager noticed Adam was wearing a tiny poppy badge and a charity wristband. In front of dozens of customers, Adam was instructed to remove the items. He refused and was suspended from work and escorted from the shop. Within hours of the details being posted on social media, a spokesman for the English Defence League contacted Morrisons head office, and warned that the EDL intended to mount a national campaign against the supermarket, in which activists and supporters would be advised to go to Morrisons branches, fill their shopping trolleys, get the items scanned at the till and then say "I don't want it, I support Adam Austin". This tactic, if coordinated would cause chaos with Morrisons stock control system. Further media pressure led to Morrisons issuing a full apology and reinstating Adam Austin to his job, with permission to wear his poppy with pride!

The Myth of Fascist Violence

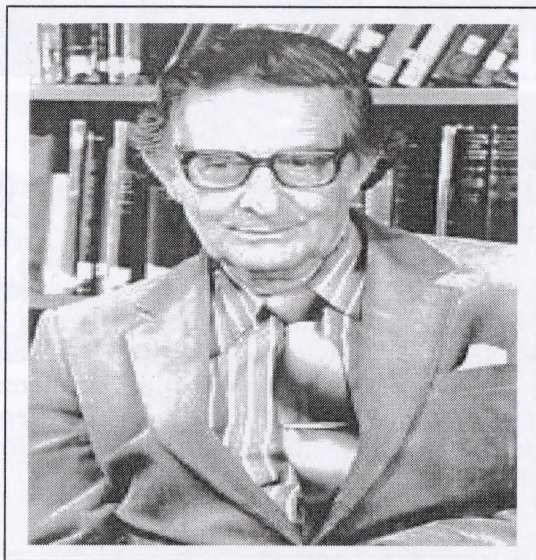

By Graham Hargraves

Fascist movements have come to be associated with political violence, but it is a cynical lie that Fascists are responsible for that violence. It is, therefore, highly regrettable that even some nationalist organisations today seem to believe that violence is a Fascist prerequisite, as is evident by their inane – and self-defeating – references to violent “left-wing fascists”. In the concluding part of this article we look at left-wing violence.

Not only “fascists”

Now let us return to England. Red violence is still not just reserved for Fascists. Let's look at a few examples.

In 1973, the elderly Professor Hans Eysenck, a refugee from Nazi Germany, was viciously attacked while speaking at the London School of Economics. His “crime” had been to conduct honest and independent research into the relationship between race and intelligence. He was kicked and punched and had his spectacles broken by his heroic attackers, who were believed to have come from Birmingham University, although the only thug immediately identified was, apparently, not even a student. [The Guardian, 10 May 1973.]

Professor Hans Eysenck: Kicked and punched by left-wing thugs

Reds love of abortion

It is not just race issues that set off the red mobs. A Labour MP, Michael O'Halloran, was punched unconscious by “left wing militants who invaded his constituency headquarters.” When he told them to leave, they grabbed him, punched him to the ground and put the boot in. A constituent who had come to see him revived him with brandy. He identified several of his attackers as left-wing members of the North Islington Labour party, who had been campaigning to get him ousted as MP. The incident followed a demonstration outside the Labour party headquarters by 30 banner-wavers chanting “Free abortions”. O'Halloran was a Roman Catholic and supported a Parliamentary Bill to amend the Abortion Act. [Daily Mail, 12 March 1977.]

Advocates of squatting

More recently, a conservative MP, Mike Weatherley, had rocks and tomatoes hurled at him by about 50 “violent thugs.” He was due to participate in a debate on squatting at the University of Sussex; he supported legislation to criminalize squatting. It seems that the thugs were not students but, clearly, they knew about the event. The debate was aborted after the violence in which two of Mr Weatherley's female staff were injured, one of whom had her arm crushed in a door. Weatherley and the women had to lock themselves in a room at the University until the police came to rescue them.

Violent Squatters clash with police

[The Guardian, 14 November 2012.] Leftists, of course, though they usually come from affluent households, have no respect for other peoples' property, whether it means violently supporting unlawful squatting or exterminating kulaks.

The Myth of Fascist Violence:

It seems that some nationalists consider there to be certain advantages in making gratuitous and unnecessary attacks on "Fascists." Presumably, they hope that it will help to distance themselves from the pre-war social nationalist movements and relieve them from the effects of the hate campaign, waged day in and day out, through the mass media's continual re-hashing of hopelessly one-sided wartime propaganda.

Their striving for respectability, however, does not seem to be very successful.

My own experience, over more than five decades, is that any genuine social nationalist (as distinct from a geographical or civic nationalist) organization is always going to be subject to continual name-calling, other abuse, harassment and persecution, no matter how often or how strongly they attack "Fascists" and "Nazis", or praise "Good Old Winnie", or affirm the "Holocaust". They will still be portrayed as "Fascists", "Nazis" and "racists" by the establishment, its mass media and hordes of flunkies; so any jibe by social nationalists about "left-wing fascists" will have the effect of confirming the propaganda of their own enemies and serve to make things more difficult for themselves.

Further, it seems doubtful whether the ploy of attacking "Fascists" etc will have an overall positive effect on the electorate.

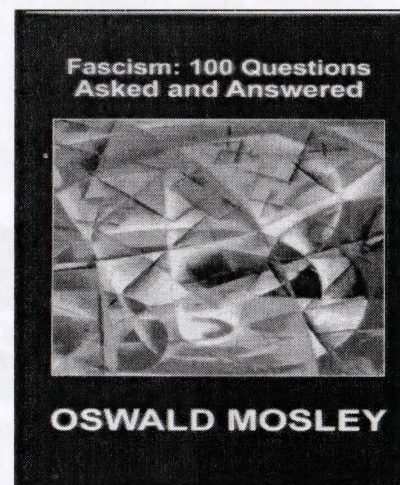

For though it may convince some people that you cannot be "Fascists" if you insult or condemn them, other people may well be put off by the thought that, rightly or wrongly, you are just trying to pull the wool over their eyes. (The "Me thinks you protest too much" syndrome.)

In any event, having regard to the increasingly deteriorating position of the country and the breakdown of society, it seems likely that if a critical mass of our people does eventually decide that a real change is necessary, they will turn to the honest and uncompromising stance of National Socialism rather than to some wishy-washy halfway house.

Race Hate Britain

Why Are Race Hate Crimes Against Whites Being Ignored?

Britain has some of the most draconian race hate laws in the world. Since the introduction of the Crime and Punishment Act in 1998, almost any crime can in certain circumstances, attract a more severe sentence if a "racially aggravated" charge can be brought instead of, or together with the basic charge. The decision on whether an offence appears to have an element of racial aggravation is initially decided by the police, who inform the Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) when passing them the details of the offence. The CPS then decides whether or not to include the alleged racial aggravation into the final charges.

But what has been increasingly clear, is the reluctance to include the element of racial aggravation into crimes committed by non-Whites. Indeed, very often the authorities seem over eager to deny any racial element in a crimes committed by non-whites.

The recent trial of six British born Muslim men who had planned to attack a rally organised by the English Defence League was a prime example. The thugs were only unable to carry out their plan because the rally in Dewsbury, West Yorkshire, finished early and the EDL supporters had left the area. The plotters had a chilling arsenal of weapons including swords, guns and even a home-made pipe bomb. But despite the gang being Asian, and their targets almost exclusively white, no suggestion of racial aggravation was made during the trial, which would have increased the eventual sentences

EDL. Targeted by Asian gang but not a race crime

In another case, a 26 year-old Asian man who daubed a war memorial in Burton upon Trent with slogans proclaiming, "Islam will dominate the world, Osama is on his way" was only charged with criminal damage, after the CPS decided there was no racial element in the slogans! Compare this to a recent fire at a Muslim Community building in Ealing, West London, where police decided it was a race hate crime, on the basis that someone had sprayed the letter, EDL, on an outside wall of the building! This was even before the Fire Brigade had decided the fire was deliberate!

Opemipo Jaji, is a British-born Black male who sexually assaulted a 12 year-old White girl in 2011. He was sent to a young offenders unit for just 5 months. Within a few weeks of being released, he was convicted of possessing the vilest category of images of child abuse. These included obscene images of young white girls. He was given an 18-month supervision order. One day last November, Jaji, returning from a meeting with his probation officer, dragged an 11 year-old girl into a park, and repeatedly raped her over a three hour period. So violent was the attack, the child needed hospital treatment including internal stitches.

Yes, the girl was white!

But no element of racial motive, no racial aggravation was included in the charges brought against Jaji by the CPS. Even the Judge commented that Jaji "was obsessed with little white girls" but the CPS either missed this point, or deliberately chose to ignore it.

These examples are just the tip of the iceberg!

A Freedom of Information request asking for statistics on how many non-Whites have been charged with "racially aggravated" crimes compared to the number of whites, received the brief reply "these figures are not collected"!

"Incitement to violence" But not racially aggravated

Whites are entitled to equal protection from "racially aggravated" crime, and we need to remind the authorities of OUR rights.

Race Hate Britain

Grooming of White Girls by Muslim Gangs IS Race Hate!

But nobody charged with a Racially Aggravated Crime!

The epidemic of sex crimes committed by Muslim men on young white girls, was for years ignored by police and social services. But now slowly, action is being taken against the worst offenders, the torturers, rapists and child traffickers. But still the police and Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) are in denial about the racial hatred element in the crimes, and to date not one offender has had the "racially aggravated" element added to their criminal charges.

It is possible that the police and CPC genuinely believe that there was no racial element in the gang rape and sexual torture of young white girls by Muslim men, but we must remind them of the words of Sir William Macpherson QC, in his 1998 report into the murder of Steven Lawrence,

"A racist incident is any incident which is perceived to be racist by the victim or any other person".

The wording is incredibly simple and clear, whenever these cases come to light, whenever whites are victims and non-whites the perpetrators, the victims, their parents and even members of the public have the right to insist they are of a racial nature and the charges should reflect this factor. Letters and emails should be sent to the Attorney General, and the CPS reminding them of Macpherson's ruling and demanding the inclusion of "racially aggravated" to charges.

That this type of crime is racially aggravated can be confirmed by Taj Hargey, the Imam of the Oxford Islamic Congregation. This forthright religious leader, has condemned the attitude of many Muslim men who believe white girls are "easy meat".

The Imam has advocated that the activities of the Oxford sex ring were "bound up with religion and race". All the men were Muslim and they "deliberately targeted vulnerable white girls". This was identical to the gang-rapes in Rochdale, Telford and Derby.

The police, the CPS and a large element of the Muslim community, "are in ideological denial" claims Dr Hargey.

The racial element in grooming gangs has even been acknowledged by some politicians, including the influential Home Affairs Select Committee.

Oxford Grooming Gang: All their victims were White!

The sentences passed on the Oxford grooming gang were reasonable, but did not include the extra severity that a "racially aggravated" charge would bring.

More arrests of Asian grooming gangs are expected soon. If all their victims are white then we must appeal to the Attorney General and to the CPS to include "racially aggravated" in the charges.

Every day, every week, whites are victims of assaults, rapes, and street robberies by black and Asian thugs. It is up to us to remind the authorities that race-hate works both ways, and that "racially aggravated" crimes are not just committed by whites on black and Asian victims.

Remind them of our rights, remind them of the words of Sir William Macpherson QC,

"A racist incident is any incident which is perceived to be racist by the victim or any other person".

It's time to fight back!

Russia Warns Britain Over Terrorist Asylum Seekers

A security advisor to the Russian government has issued a warning to Britain that we are harbouring terrorist and Islamic extremists who arrived from Chechnya and other areas of the North Caucasus, as asylum seekers!

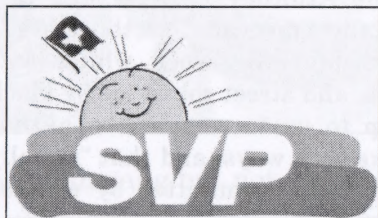

Igor Korotchenko, who edits the highly respected "National Defence Journal" in Moscow and is a security advisor to the Russian military, said Britain, has become a "ticking time-bomb" for allowing radicalised Muslims into Britain posing as asylum seekers. Mr Korotchenko, was speaking in the aftermath of the bombing of the Boston Marathon, where three people were killed and 170 injured by radicalised Chechen immigrants. In a press conference to discuss the failure of America's FBI, to heed warnings sent to them by the Russian State Security about Boston bomber, Tamerlan Tsarnaev, Mr Korotchenko told journalists, "Britain's MI5 should pay closer attention to extremist Islamic radicals from the North Caucasus, now living in Britain. Many of these had tasted blood, caused explosions and have learned the skills of terror". He warned, "It is very dangerous that a potential terrorist underground network is being created in Britain, more dangerous than the IRA".

Swiss Vote to Stop Immigration

Following pressure from the nationalist, Swiss People's Party, (SVP) the Swiss government finally held a long promised referendum on Immigration and Asylum claims.

The result saw that 80% of Swiss voters wanted a complete halt to immigration into the country. Severe restrictions on government funded housing for immigrants already living in the country. An end to Swiss embassies abroad accepting asylum claims, and an end to sanctuary currently offered to Asylum seekers claiming to be conscientious objectors facing military service in their own country.

The Swiss government has already placed a limit on the number of EU citizens, including Britons who can work in the country.

EU Urge Greece to Ban Golden Dawn

In a blatant attempt to interfere in Greek politics, the Council of Europe's Commissioner for human rights, Nils Muiznieks, has told the Greek government that they have the legal right to ban the patriotic, Golden Dawn party!

Golden Dawn, which has 18 seats in the Greek Parliament, is being blamed by human rights groups for the escalation of attacks on immigrants, illegal and otherwise. The party regularly campaigns on a policy of "ridding Greece of immigrant filth" and has been successful in forcing the government into introducing stringent anti-immigrant policies. However, they offended the Greek Jewish community, and elements of World Jewry, when party leader Nikos Michaloliakos condemned much of the Holocaust as a lie!

A recent poll showed support for Golden Dawn has surged to 15%.

In the meantime, the party announced its intentions of establishing Golden Dawn branches in Greek communities throughout the world! Party spokesman Ilias Kasidiaris told a recent press conference that the party intends to form branches "wherever there are Greeks". Already offices have been opened in Germany, and others are planned for Australia, Canada and the US, before the end of the year. The Australian office will be in Melbourne, which is home to 300,000 ethnic Greeks.

Two journalists needed hospital treatment. The police made a total of 300 arrests.

UK Border Agency Launches New Initiative in Northern Ireland

Officers from the UK Border Agency have launched a successful new initiative in Northern Ireland, uncovering sham marriages and illegal workers.

In Belfast, 26 year-old, Ayesha Mullen, was arrested after attempting to take part in a sham marriage to an Indian man, designed to allow him to settle in Britain. Mullen, who is from Leicester, flew into Belfast from India with her prospective groom, and then travelled on to Downpatrick where the wedding was to take place.

The couple were arrested in Downpatrick and Mullen admitted attempting the sham marriage and confessed that she had previously married other Indian men, both in the UK and India. Mullen was sentenced to 15 months imprisonment.

The prospective groom was also sentenced to 15 months jail, which will be followed by a deportation order.

UK Border Agency Arrests Illegal Immigrant

Asian men were found working illegally in restaurants in Antrim and Castlederg. In Antrim, two Bangladeshi men were found working illegally in Zara's Indian Restaurant on Market Square, and in Castlederg, a worker at the Taste of India takeaway on Main Street, was arrested for working illegally.

In Newry, medical staff at Daisy Hill hospital, who were treating a pregnant 14 year-old girl became alarmed when she suddenly miscarried. The girl, of West African origin, revealed her father had given her an "abortion potion" in a desperate attempt to stop her having the baby. The girl's father had obtained the potion from a "Witch Doctor" practicing within the West African Community in Dublin. The father took his daughter across the border for treatment, fearing that a hospital in Southern Ireland would inform the police.

In a further twist, the girl has claimed that her father had raped her and made her pregnant. Authorities have retained the foetus, and tests are being made to determine the father, and the contents of the potion that forced the miscarriage.

Irish Republic

Government officials have raised concerns over the amount of young people leaving Southern Ireland to immigrate each year. With the British mainland suffering massive youth employment, the favoured destinations are now Australia and Canada. An Irish official told a press conference that many of those opting to leave the country were skilled workers who would be vital for Ireland's recovery once the current recession was over.

Grooming, Sexual Torture and the Culture of Denial

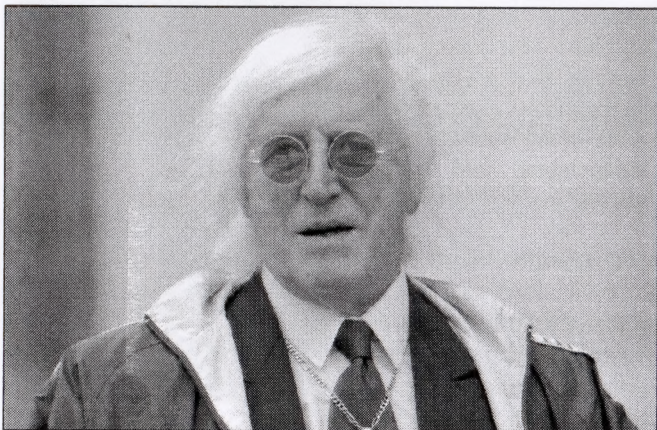

The recent trial of the Oxford gang of paedophiles again revealed the culture of denial that has embedded itself in the police, social services and the wider Muslim community. Of the case itself, the trial Judge condemned the police and social services for missing "tell-tale" signs which allowed a Muslim paedophile gang to sexually torture white children as young as 11, for almost eight years. But, in many cases, the "tell-tale" signs were not missed, they were conveniently ignored. One victim reported her torture and rape to the police, and was threatened with arrest for wasting police time! The police were in denial!

Since the guilty verdicts, the "denial machine" has been working at top speed.

The mother of one of the rapists denied her son was responsible, unbelievably, she publicly blamed the victim!

One Muslim organisation pledged that an anti-grooming sermon would be read out by Imams at over 500 mosques, but several mosques refused to hear the sermon and refused to discuss the issue. Muslims in denial! It is also noted that the sermon refused to blame Muslims as the culprits and white schoolgirls as their victims. Instead, it referred to the need to protect "our children", not that "their children" are under threat!

The government, visibly embarrassed by the "threat to community relations", and terrified of a backlash against the Muslim community, used their Children's Commissioner's office, to launch a propaganda campaign. Officials went to the media and pointed out that a lot of white men have also been convicted of grooming. Of course, nobody in the media challenged the Commissioner's office to produce evidence of white grooming gangs raping and torturing Muslim children! Many Muslim "Community spokesmen", representing the "Community", appeared on television shows, and again adopted the "denial tactic", several using the "Jimmy Saville and Stewart Hall defence". This simply involved using high profile white abusers as a defence.

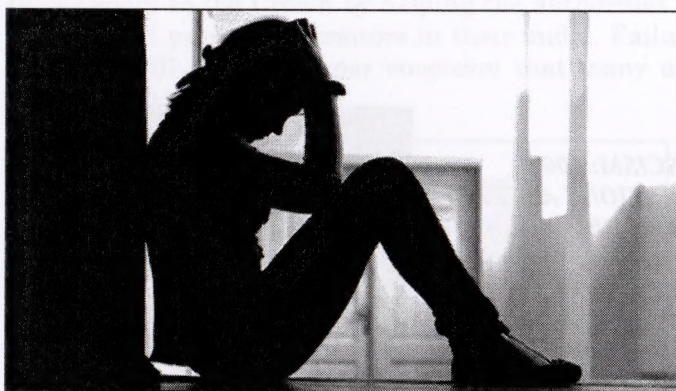

Jimmy Saville. Paedophile, but not a racial rapist

Again, not one television interviewer had the courage to point out that neither Saville nor Hall was ever accused of the "racial grooming" that seems prevalent in the Muslim community!

A major upset to the denial campaign came, when an Oxford-based Asian network interviewed a friend of one of the convicted Paedophiles. The young man told the interviewer "loads of people knew what was going on. All of the gang's friends knew what was happening, hundreds of people knew"! Oops! No "denial" here!

Police now estimate there may be as many as 2000 white victims of "racial sexual abuse" throughout the country, and as investigations continue it becomes clear that many Muslim communities know of the abuse, but choose to ignore it because the victims are white.

In many of the grooming cases the victims were given to other men to be raped, often for money. This potentially expands the number of men guilty of rape massively and we hope the police are pursuing enquiries into all of these perverts.

Finally, if the Muslim community in Britain wishes to be treated as civilised, and not as accomplices, they must be pro-active in tackling the problems of militant Islamists and racial rapists within its community.

Exposing and ostracising these criminals is the only answer, collective community denial is NOT an option!
